Memorial Fund Project Boosted

THE HALF-GOAL IS REACHED. NEED WHOLE-HEARTED SUPPORT OF EVERY CITIZEN

At last week's Community Service Club meeting the fund for East Jordan's new Memorial Park received a new boost to the tune of $500. With a number of the unit representatives not in attendance, the following pledges were recorded:

Legion Auxilliary	$ 25.00
Rotary Club	100.00
Rebekahs	25.00
South Arm Grange	25.00
Eastern Star	25.00
Altar Society	25.00
Garden Club	25.00
Oddfellows	50.00
American Legion	50.00
Presbyterian Church	100.00
Holy Name Society	25.00
Masonic Lodge	25.00

The project, when completed, will include the lake front area running from the Mill Street bridge north to the Creamery and will consist of a landscaped park, a modern bandshell, a suitable memorial monument and a complete honor roll of all East Jordan's Service men and women. The total cost of approximately $6500 is now about half subscribed or in sight leaving a balance of roughly $3200 still to be raised. A financial committee headed by Hollis Drew has been appointed to plan the raising of the balance of the funds.

The initial work of filling, clearing and pipe-laying will be done at a Chamber of Commerce sponsored community bee at a date not as yet announced but President Bob Campbel and Secretary Barney Milstein are promising a real turn-out for this important and money-saving event. It is suggested that all the able-bodied he-men in the community go into training to assure 100 per cent results!

Many organizations are planning special money raising events and it is hoped it will be made a matter of 'first business' in their schedules as it is desired to keep the project on a 'cash' basis with work going ahead as funds are available. Several of the proponents of the project require the lions share of the total amount and it is important that delays are not necessitated through lack of money. Also organizations not yet pledged are urged to bring the project before their memberships at the earliest meeting possible and advise the Club Treasurer, Agnes Hegerberg, of the amount to be made available. It is a big undertaking to be based on voluntary contributions and will require the whole-hearted support of every man, woman and child of our area. It is a job that each of us may well be proud of. . . . when completed! So let's go, East Jordan — we haven't failed 'Them' yet!

Christ Lutheran Church

Rev. Fred Wilkins, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church at Bay City will deliver the sermons next Sunday at Christ Church of Boyne City and Wilson Township. Pastor Wilkins is a vacationist in this area. Rev. Norman Kuck, local pastor, wll conduct the liturgical portions of the services. The schedule of services is: Wilson Township 9:30 A. M. and Boyne City 11:00 a. m.

Develop A New Artificial Leg

Gen. Malcolm C. Grow, army airforces flight surgeon, has revealed details of how German scientists under American supervision have developed a hydraulic artificial leg that is bringing new hope to amputees.

Grow described the invention in the latest issue of AAF Review, a new official service journal of the AAF. He said it overcomes many of the difficulties of the old style artificial legs, such as lack of control of the knee and ankle joints.

Grow said that when the new light weight hydraulic system is installed in present hollow artificial legs, the knee joint can be fixed at any angle. It permits coordination of the angle and knee joints by means of connecting them with rods attached to the inner part of the lower leg.

Grow said the new leg will permit the amputee to walk up and down stairs normally, stand on the artificial leg alone and walk on the level with a much more normal stride.

He said the "hydraulic leg" is on its way here from Germany, where it was developed.

CHOPIN'S REAL LOVE STORY

Ten letters, just discovered in Warsaw, reveal that not George Sand the writer, but a Polish countess, a musician, had the greatest influence on the life and art of the celebrated composer. Read Chopin's Real Love Story, by Ethel Vance, in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (July 28) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Mrs. Jennie Handy Age 100 Years Dies at Grand Rapids

Mrs. Jennie Handy, a former resident of East Jordan, who observed her one-hundredth birthday anniversary last February, died Saturday night, July 20, at the Michigan Veterans facility, Grand Rapids, where she has lived since 1920.

She was the widow of James F. Handy, Civil War veteran, who died in 1918. She was born in Akron, Ohio, and was married Aug. 20, 1868.

Surviving is a son, Ernest of Curtis.

The remains were brought to East Jordan, Tuesday, July 23. Burial at Sunset Hill; committment was conducted by Rev. C. W. Sidebotham.

POTATO SPRAYING:

Spraying of potatoes is a paying proposition, says Henry C. Moore, research specialist in potato production at Michigan State college. "We have proved in experiments and test plots that spraying with DDT improves the quality of the potatoes and steps up production from 60 to 100 bushels per acre," he stated.

The specialist says time to start is when the plants are four to five inches high. Spraying every 7 to 10 days is recommended, and more frequently if the season is wet. DDT will control the flea beetle very well. The potato leaf hopper, which causes the edge and tip of the leaf to turn brown and curl, also is effectively exterminated with the new killer. This hopper causes severe damage after haying time as it leaves the hay fields and migrate to the potato fields after hay is cut.

Contrary to the opinion of some. DDT can be used effectively with Bordeaux mixture or a fixed copper solution, Moore says. The Bordeaux mixture or fixed copper solution will control blight. DDT should be added last and the solution sprayed as heavy as 125 gallons to the acre. The tractor operator should drive slowly to get adequate coverage.

Too often, Moore has observed, farmers quit spraying too quickly. When the plants are large, spraying is difficult, but 50 percent of the potato field is made in the last few weeks of the season. For this reason praying should be continued until frost or harvest. The potato specialist also suggests farmer contact county agricultural agent for proper formulas for spraying potato fields.

SUMMER CARE FOR SHRUBS:

Now is a good time to prune your spring flowering shrubs—like forsythia, viburnum, dogwood, lilac, honeysuckle, deutzia and weigela. F. L. O'Rourke, specialist in horticulture at MSC, says the sooner these shrubs are pruned after blooming, the better. It gives them more time to store up food and produce buds for an abundant bloom next spring.

The one important thing about pruning is to study your plant before you cut a single stem. Compare the plant with others of the same species and note its individual growth habits. When you prune, bring out the natural grace of the plant, accentuate its individuality and keep it in harmony with its surroundings. If you do that, you've done a good job of pruning.

The old gardener's adage, "Prune at the bottom, not at the top" still holds true today. Take out a few of the older stems at the ground level but avoid cutting at the top. That'll reduce height. Thin the plant judiciously. Take out the older wood, for the most part, but cut the weaker shoots from among the younger stems, too. Prune off seed pods and old unsightly flower heads. When you're done, you should have a bush that shows symmetry and grace.

As long as you're out in the yard, you might take a look at your hydrangea, chrysanthemums, dahlias and roses. If you start disbudding the side shoots and continue the practice, you'll get extra large blooms and longer stems.

Peace of mind is a business asset; giving a customer a piece of your mind is a business liability.

Vogt — Vance

Beautiful in its simplicity was the candlelight, double ring ceremony in the Congregational church at Grand Ledge, Frday evening at 8:00 o'clock that united Miss Virginia B. Vogt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Vogt, and Bryce C. Vance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Vance, in holy wedlock.

With Mrs. Sawdon at the organ, Mrs. Leslie Grinnell sang "I Love You Truly." As the first strains of the Wedding March pealed out, the bridal party entered. The officiating minister, Rev. G. L. Geddings, the groom and his brother Barton Vance as groomsman came from the side and front. Miss Clare Toaz, bridesmaid, wearing a yellow net frock and carrying a colonial bouquet, approached the altar banked with huge baskets of flowers and candlelabra with lighted tapers. She was followed by the bride on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The bride was lovely in a white shadow sheer gown with shoulder length veil held in place with a band of blossoms. She too carried a colonial bouquet. The guests had been seated by Richard Vogt and Robert Carpenter. After the vows were taken, Mrs. Grinnell sang "O Perfect Love" as a prayer while the couple still knelt.

The guests then repaired to the church parlors where refreshments were served by the Misses Patricia and Jane Vance, Miss Virginia Benson of Cadillac, and Miss Marilyn Ott of Saginaw.

The young couple left for a short trip in Canada and will spend the remainder of the summer at their farm home near East Jordan. The bride will teach school this coming year at Harbor Springs.

Guests were present from East Jordan, Central Lake, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Chicago, Lansing, and Portland. The bride is a graduate of the Grand Ledge high school and MSC. The groom graduated from the East Jordan High School Class of 1939. He was recently discharged from the Army where he served 20 months; seven months in Europe.

Those from here to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Vance and daughters Jane Ellen and Patricia, and son Barton; Rev. and Mrs. Howard Moore and son David.

Vernon Payton, 58 Former Resident Here Dies In California

Vernon Payton, 58, son of Daniel Payton, died at San Diego, Calif., July 15, in a hospital.

He was proprietor of the White Cross Drug Store, Forty-third St., and Universty Ave. A charter member of East San Diego Chamber of Commerce and East San Diego Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Payton moved to San Diego 24 years ago from East Jordan. He was born in Charlevoix. He was a member of Traverse City Lodge No. 222, F. & A. M. and San Diego Druggists Association.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mildred B. Payton; two daughters, Mrs. Virginia L. Bacon of Boston, and Mrs. Helen Carr of South Bend, Ind.; a son, Donald S. Payton of San Diego; a sister, Miss Minnie Payton of San Diego; and four grandchildren.

He worked for L. C. Madison in the drugstore on Mill St. After fire destroyed the business block on Mill St., the Madison drug store opened in the building now occupied by the Shaw Grocery which he purchased and operated until the family left East Jordan and went to Charlevoix where he purchased the Hines Drug store and operated some time before going to California.

Glen Bulow Opens Theatre

The Brooklyn Exponent of July 11 carried this headline: "Star Theatre to open in New Building Wednesday, July 17." Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bulow, who formerly operated the Temple Theatre in East Jordan, are operating this new Theatre in Brooklyn, Michigan.

Dr. Wm. Lampe Preaches in East Jordan Next Sunday

Dr. Wm. Lampe,a real favorite with East Jordan people, preaches in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning at 10:30.

Dr. Lampe is a dynamic preacher, and is one of the outstanding ministers of the country. He has been in his present pastorate at St. Louis, Mo., for over 25 years.

East Jordan Enters Venetian Night Event at Charlevoix This Sunday

East Jordan will be represented this year for the first time in the annual Venetian Night event that for years has been a bright spot in Charlevoix's summer activities. The Chamber of Commerce, Jim Williams and Skipper Hollis Drew are collaborating in the construction of a suitable float to be mounted on the Skippers boat, Mariho II, with high hopes of making a creditable showing. This spectacular event is scheduled for next Sunday evening, July 28th.

Church of God Camp Meeting

The annual Church of God camp meeting will be held at camp located two miles south of Charlevoix on M-66, and 1 mile on good road, near Loeb school, July 26 through August 4. All daily schedule of services. Evening service at 8:00 o'clock. N. E. Reed of Anderson, Ind., evangelist. Everybody welcome.

Blueberry Pickers Forbid the Use of Rakes and Cradles

Pickers preparing for the annual "blue gold" blueberry harvest are advised that on state lands this season the picking will be done by hand.

Rule 12 of the rules for state land use forbids rakes, cradles or other mechanical devices in gathering blueberries. The conservation commission waived the rule in two of the war years when labor was scarce and food supplies short, but no suspension of the rule this season is contemplated.

A late spring delayed blossoming until danger of frost damage passed and heavy rains while the berries were forming are getting credit for the good crop now maturing on some "plains" of the upper peninsula, where the harvest is import commercially. Blueberry picking already has begun in some southern Michigan counties, where the yield is limited this season.

CONTOUR STRIP CROPPING

100 acres of contour strip cropping has been laid out on the farms of Bernie DeYoung (365 acres) Dan Tripplett (20 acres) Carl Conant (21 acres) Glade Berg (19 acres) and Vic Crandall (4.5 acres).

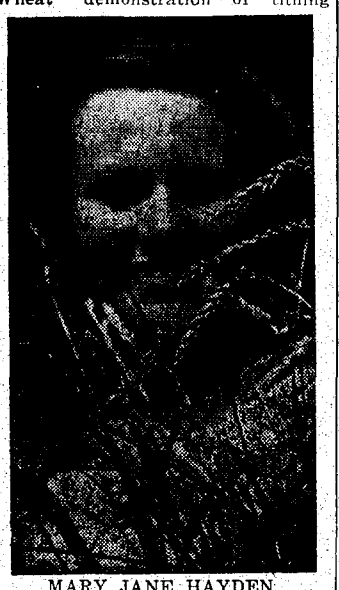

These contour strips have been laid out under the supervision of Everett Gulembo and Virgil Thayer, technicians of the Soil Conservation Service. Bernie DeYoung and Dan Triplett are starting contour strip farming while the other three farmers have followed strip farming for one or two years and are seeing the value of good farm practices, besides the saving of soil and water.

Farmers interested should contact the Directors of the soil conservation District of Walter G. Kirkpatrick.

MARY JANE HAYDEN

whereby farmers have agreed to donate one-tenth of the annual yeld of grains, starting with one bushel of grain donated by Henry Ford, to the church of their choice. The sixth and final planting of dynamic kernels has produced approximately 50,000 bushels of wheat, valued currently at about $100,000.

Sown this year by 267 Michigan farmers, the tithed wheat will benefit 30 religious denominations and about 175 individual churches. Much of the wheat will be donated to famine relief.

Mary Jane has dedicated her life to the cause of Christ. She will be a foreign missionary, planting the seed of Christianity and the spirit of the Golden Rule in the hearts of people in far-off lands.

Labor unrest in the city, not the revolutionary threat of the atomic bomb, is prompting industry to decentralize production in favor of small towns.

While on a brief swing of West Michigan last week, we ran into several cases of this post-war trend.

At Belding, for example, the town's business section is dominated by an imposing mill structure, many storie high, with big clock in a tower. It was built about 1900 by the Belding Brothers Silk company and operated steadily until 1931 when it became a victim of the depression and remained idle for nearly nine years.

The Belding mill plant is the new home of a division of the Murray Corporation of America which employs 550 persons to make springs for Oldsmobiles. Another new industry is the Extruded Metal Corp., employing 300 persons to make airplane parts. Gibson has a stove factory also at Belding.

North of Belding is another enterprising small city, Greenville, with plants making Gibson refrigerators and Federal Mogul trucks. Don Smith, newspaper publisher, reported that Greenville has a labor shortage; that local industries hope to double payrolls in the next five years.

Cedar Springs, the red flannel home, was selected recently for a branch of the Keeler Brass company of Grand Rapids Its big industry is the Interstate Creamery which employs 80 persons, pays them $3,500 a week, and puts $30,000 into the bank accounts of dairy farmers every six days.

Through the courtesy of Cy Johnson, plant superintendent, we witnessed the assembly line production of sweetened condensed milk, of which 250,000 cans are being turned out daily for shipment overseas. Interstate recently opened up branches at Edmore and Reed City.

Sparta, also in Kent county, brags of a "million dollar peach belt", but it has several prosperous industries including a branch of the Muskegon Piston Ring company and a plant of the Carnation Milk company, only one of its kind in Michigan. Nearby at Kent City is the Larsen canning plant.

Growers near Sparta are in clover this summer. Cherries are bringing $300 a ton, or around 21 cents a quart. Pickers earn $1 an hour, compared with $1.50 a day pre-war. One Sparta grower, a graduate of Michigan State College, netted $2,000 an acre from strawberries on a three-and-one-half-acre tract.

Up in Newaygo county at Grant is an up-and-coming agricultural center. Nine new buildings are under construction in the business district, thanks to high prices for onions, celery and carrots.

Grant is proud of its fine community building, the gift of heirs of a leading West Michigan lumberman, the late D. W. Squier, who left property in 38 states.

The town of Newaygo on the Muskegon river is the home of a new industry, the Robey Tackle company, making fishing tackle and tennis shoes. It was started by L. L. Robey, former salesman for Shakespeare at Kalamazoo. Newaygo also has the newly organized Post Frozen Products company and the Newaygo Milk Products company, both financed by Grand Rapids and Fremont people.

At White Cloud, county seat of Newaygo county, is a lumber company which is "going to town" with prefabricated houses. Three rooms and bath for $1,300, so we were told.

Scottville is the home of the world's largest canning plant for string beans. It is operated by the Stokely company of Indianapolis. When we were there, the company was advertising for 2,000 women to work five or six weeks.

Traveling northward along the sandy west coast with its succession of lakes, most of them connected to Lake Michigan, we visited Manistee, Frankfort, Beulah and Charlevoix. Hotels and cottages are jammed; it looks like a bumper year for the tourist industry there.

Better wire ahead for reservations if you plan to stay any length of time. We found plenty of cabin facilities for overnight needs.

Conceived by the American Legion and legalized as a holiday by the state legislature with an official proclamation by Governor Harry, "Victory Day" will be celebrated in Michigan Wednesday, August 14. A number of Michigan towns will hold rousing receptions for World War II veterans. State employees now have ten legal holidays with pay; "Victory Day" will be No. 11.

An eye-witness true story: Recently we were week-end guests of Richard "Dick" Fletcher of Bay City at his Roscommon summer place. On a day's canoe trip down the South Branch, AuSable, we went by four fishermen, each of whom was eager to get the daily limit of 15 trout. At the Smith bridge the four men caught up with us. Much to our surprise they returned 42 live trout to the stream — the day's creel. How many sportsmen would do the same?

Opera in the "Vernacular"

Thomas L. Thomas, talented young American baritone, who will be heard in recital at Bayview, Mich. on Aug. 2 8 p. m. at the John M. Hall auditorium, feels that opera, in this country, should be sung in English as well as in its native tongue. Ample proof of Mr. Thomas' feelings on the subject was the acclaim which greeted his performance in English (in 1941) of the Rostand, "Cyrano de Bergerac."

"If opera is to survive here," says Mr. Thomas, "it should be sung in English. Cyrano is a splendid example of how a dramatic tale can be made effective and thoroughly enjoyable with the music accompaniment helping the development of the tale—underscoring the keenly dramatic moments. I am certain that when the public awakens to the fact that English is a very singable language, Cyrano will take its place with such great roles as Rigoletto and Boris. I frankly believe that Cyrano may be the fore-runner of a true school of American opera."

Mr. Thomas is unswervingly devoted to this country and to the English language, although he spent his childhood in Wales. Even now, after many years in America, he talks Welsh in his sleep—so he has been told.

The Welsh in him sticks in other ways, too. In private life, he clings to the unpronounceable middle name "Llyfnwy" though, for professional use he lets it be abbreviated to Thomas L. Thomas.

Questioned about the reiterative character of his name —the use of "Thomas" twice, he said.

"That's a common practice among the Welsh. If they happen to like a name, they use it twice Instead of hunting for another. My boyhood chums included Evans Evans, George George and John John!"

"Who is that good-looking woman?"

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Excess Profits Tax Is Urged; Tourists' 'Victory Vacations' Are Crowding America's Parks

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

IOWA HARVEST . . . This picture was taken six miles southeast of Clarinda, Iowa, where a tractor-drawn binder is harvesting a field of small grain. Iowa expects to harvest the best crop in its history of big crops.

PROFITS TAX:
Urged by Eccles

Renewal of the excess profits tax as a means of counteracting excessive price advances should the OPA finally be scrapped is being urged by Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, and others. Pressure will be put on the treasury and the White House to bring it about to curb profits and also as a deterrent to labor demands for higher wages.

Many believe that repeal of the profits levy provided a major impetus to union efforts to gain wage concessions worth all the savings to the big corporations.

Opponents of the excess profits tax believe that, regardless of the treasury and the White House, congress will not accept a proposal to tax excess profits as was done during the war. Chairman Robert Doughton, chairman of the powerful house ways and means committee, is known to be against the profits levy, and he, with others, can provide a great obstacle to such a plan.

VACATIONS:
Farther the Better

Travel-hungry Americans are taking their "Victory vacations" in record numbers, with "the farther away, the better" as their motto, a mid-season survey shows. "Westward Ho" is another trend, with Yellowstone park far in the lead as the nation's favorite vacation spot.

A count of visitors at Yellowstone from the beginning of the travel year on October 1, 1945, to June 30, this year, indicates that 199,390 persons have entered the park in this current period, compared with 143,716 in the 1940-41 period before the war. In June alone, 158,338 scenic beauty seekers passed the park gates.

Colorado, the Black Hills and other western tourist spots show record numbers of visitors. Next to the west are the northern states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Boat cruises are more popular than for many years on the Great Lakes and the larger rivers.

A noticeable trend this year is the enthusiasm for automobile touring, which was denied most people during the war years. Owners of seasonal resorts are planning to remain open longer this year to take care of staggered vacations.

CHINA:
And UNRRA Relief

Charges of misuse of UNRRA supplies by the Chinese government for political purposes brought about suspension of relief shipments to China except for emergency supplies. Chiang's government immediately protested the suspension as unfair.

A Chinese government spokesman conceded that there was some "petty pilfering" and that poor people sometimes sell the more expensive foods received from UNRRA and buy cheaper food. He stated the quantity involved was small.

Members of the senate appropriations committee in Washington immediately called upon Fiorella H. LaGuardia, director general of UNRRA, to explain why he cut off relief and rehabilitation supplies to China. LaGuardia stated that shipments would be resumed as soon as Chinese ports were cleared of jams of supplies.

BRITISH LOAN:
Passage Predicted

The proposed $3,750,000 British loan will be approved, although by a narrow margin, congressional leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties have predicted for weeks.

Most of the opposition to the British loan has come from the Middle West. Supporters of the credit, therefore, greeted the defeat of Senator Shipstead of Minnesota, one of the loan's implacable foes, with great satisfaction. They believe his defeat will make passage of the British loan by the senate much easier when the measure reaches that body.

Harold E. Stassen, whose candidate defeated Shipstead, has announced that he will take the stump for candidates in other states to build "a progressive Republican party." This meant to most observers that he will continue to advocate passage of the loan bill.

MINNESOTA:
Stassen and Thye

Gov. Edward J. Thye, hand-picked candidate of Harold E. Stassen, piled up an impressive margin over Sen. Henrik Shipstead for the Republican senatorial nomination and started all over the argument about Stassen's political power and chance to become the GOP candidate for President of the U. S. in 1948.

Stassen, more than Thye, was made the issue of the campaign by Senator Shipstead who openly boasted of his vote against United Nations and the loan to Britain. Stassen, considered a liberal and an internationalist, had approved the U. N. and the loan.

Friends of Stassen predicted that a Thye victory would put Stassen back on the presidential trail and regain the prestige he lost in some quarters when Governor Griswold, whom Stassen supported in the June primary in Nebraska, was defeated by Senator Butler for the GOP senatorial nomination. Others maintain that Thye's popularity was so great in Minnesota that he won despite Stassen.

WIND:
On Capitol Hill

"Demosthenes earned his stature by speaking against the sea, but I hate to speak against the wind."

Thus spoke Representative Eaton of New Jersey to the house of representatives when he tried to speak on the proposed loan to Britain in a noisy house. He continued, saying that he had another complaint, that of "arguing against empty seats. I used to do it in church, but I'm not going to do it here."

Representative Eaton was once a minister.

VETS WORK:
10 of 12 on Job

Ten out of every 12 veterans discharged by June 1 are at work or in school, according to the U. S. unemployment service.

"For the third straight month the backlog of World War II veterans not at work has been reduced, notwithstanding continued discharges of servicemen from the armed forces," said Robert C. Goodwin, USES director.

In sharp contrast was the American Veterans' committee announcement of the formation of 550 employment committees because "job opportunities are becoming tougher to find."

OPA BILL:
Emasculation

Whether or not the new OPA bill being passed by congress will leave any price control to be administered is a 64-dollar question. Here is an exemption box score at its very beginning in the senate:

Exemption for meat and poultry, by Senator Wherry, Neb., passed 49 to 26.

Exemption for milk and dairy products, by Senator Wherry, passed 51 to 27.

Exemption for cottonseed, soybeans and their products, by Senator Eastland, Miss., passed 42 to 34.

Exemption for petroleum and its products, by Senator Moore, Okla., adopted 40 to 30.

More amendments for exemptions were tossed in the next day—and the next!

WHITNEY:
'Truman Is Beaten'

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, testifying before a house labor subcommittee, reiterated that his union had $2,500,000 which could be used to fight Mr. Truman in event he is a candidate for re-election in 1948. Whitney now feels, however, that the President's "mistakes" are so great that no funds need be used.

"We will not need to spend any money to defeat Truman in 1948."

Whitney originally made his pledge to spend $2,500,000 to defeat Mr. Truman in protest against what he considered unfair treatment by the President in settling the railroad strike.

LABOR:
Will Fight

American labor will "rebel and will never yield" to the attacks now being made on it by reactionaries in congress and state legislatures, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in an address to the convention of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers in Chicago recently.

American workers are determined to maintain their standards of living at any cost, Green said. He predicted "rising unrest and strikes" unless prices are brought under control. Green said the AFL would attack the validity of the Hobbs bill in the courts, believing it to be unconstitutional.

Labor in many cities has organized to bring back price controls on most commodities.

ROUND THE WORLD . . .Larry Hightower, 46, is going around the world pushing a wheelbarrow. He plans to board a boat at San Francisco for the Orient, then trek across the big continent to Portugal, board another ship to New York, then push the wheelbarrow back to Ellensburg, Wash., his starting place.

FARM PRICES:
Up or Down?

What farm prices will be within a few months is a 64-dollar question. The OPA is off and they could go sky-high. The government isn't anxious to continue parity payments, and the price of farm products could go down, down, down. Right now they seem to be undecided which way they will go.

One day the headlines will state: "Farm Prices Up." But the next day the same newspaper will proclaim: "Corn Off Five Cents." "Oats Off Five Cents; Barley Sags; Cash Grains Lower." "Sharp Egg Loss." At the same time cotton may have advanced five dollars a bale!

A potential sharp reduction in the feed use of grain because of the heavy liquidation of livestock after OPA died resulted in much pressure on corn and oats particularly, two of the main feed crops.

Should farm prices continue to go down while other prices go up, it is feared in many circles that another squeeze, such as that during the twenties, might force congress to come to the aid of farmers by pegging prices or continuing support loans.

TERMINAL PAY:
For Nation's EM

The terminal leave pay bill for enlisted men in all of the armed services is moving along steadily on Capitol Hill in Washington. It is backed by the administration and appears to have no formidable opposition from any quarter.

Cost of the bill is estimated at from 2¾ billion to 3 billion dollars, and will give enlisted men terminal leave pay such as is now enjoyed only by officers.

ATOMIC RAYS MAY SAVE BOY'S LIFE

The marvel of nuclear fission is to be used to fight one of mankind's deadliest diseases, lukemia. No recovery from the disease has ever been recorded. Always the white blood cells, which multiply many thousands of times, have brought death. Perhaps atomic energy, or nuclear fission, is powerful enough to arrest the growth of these white blood cells. At least, that is what the physicians are hoping in the case of Alan James Habermeyer, eight, of Aurora, Ill., who has been flown to the West coast where atomic energy will be used in an attempt to save his life.

Authorities at the American Medical association center said they believed it to be the first time that nuclear fission had ever been used to fight lukemia.

World's Greatest Capital Has Its Seamy Side Too!

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—A boy joined the staff of a four-page paper of which he was one day to become editor. The office was a rattle-trap building whose notable characteristics, he later said, were "sewer gas, rats, dirt, overgrown rowdy newsboys who had to be held in check by a long whip and firearms," and it was "positively dangerous at times to go into the alley which they infested, leading to the composing room."

The town as the boy had grown up in it was a straggling overgrown country village "with zigzag grades, no sewerage, no street cars, no water supply except from pumps and springs, unimproved reservations, second-rate dwellings and streets of mud and mire."

That doesn't sound like the nation's capital whose budget for the coming year is $76,755,009—but that was the way it was in 1858 as described by the editor of the Washington Evening Star, Theodore Noyes, who died early this month. He joined the paper in 1877.

Except for the Australian capital of Canberra which arose almost as Camelot at a wave of Merlin's wand, there is nothing to compare with the bizarre history of a city whose site was based on a political deal and no city which has gone through more vicissitudes than this Baghdad-on-the-Potomac.

No city was ever more magnificently planned, or more discreditably neglected in its early days, as Mr. Noyes' description indicates. Today, as the undisputed capital of the world, it still has to battle with a grudging congress for its budget. It remains the chief city of the greatest democratic republic whose 938,000 citizens have no voice in their own government and whose citizenship itself is a bar to the basic privilege of a democracy—the ballot.

Mr. Noyes was, as is the newspaper he served, a Washington institution. He will be remembered for his long campaign to give Washington a vote in congressional and national matters.

Rats Were Menace To City's Health

Some time ago I had occasion to mention the invasion of Washington by rats and how the city hired a modern Pied Piper who has done an effective, if silent, job. This was brought to my mind recently when I encountered a fat, black cat on my way to work early one morning. The cat had a guilty look, and I had a hunch he had spent the night in riotous living and was merely sneaking in to change his collar.

However, the cataclysm caused by the rat-invasion in which, believe it or not, a baby's hand was eaten, brought hasty action and I see that it was considered worthy of comment by experts, including the editors of the magazine of the American Museum of Natural History.

The campaign began when a case of typhus which is spread by fleas and mites on rats, was discovered. Traps set in the neighborhood caught a number of rats whose blood was typhus-infected. The United States Public Health service got busy, shocked to learn that the scourge of Europe two centuries ago was a possibility right here in our fair capital.

An expert was called in. He first sealed up all points where commercial transportation entered the city. Then 300 traps were set up in the zone where the infection had been found. Five days later the traps were taken in and the area was thoroughly dusted with DDT, the insecticide which the army perfected.

Next red-squill bait was distributed. It kills rats, but not pets or children who might pick up the bait. In places where there was no danger to human beings the deadly "1080" was distributed. The campaign was successful. Meanwhile, a clean-up of potential rat-breeding premises was started with court orders to enforce it. Today Washington has a complete scientific rat-control program which will cost us about $75,000 annually.

However, it still leaves a few rats for energetic cats.

War Profiteering Will Be Scandal

The juicy scandal uncovered by the senate war investigating committee in which "profiteering at its worst," as Senator Mead called it, was exposed, is, I fear, only the beginning.

Any moment I expect to hear an explosion in connection with surplus property. War breeds waste, and the cloak of patriotic endeavor as Samuel Johnson indicated even more bluntly, often covers skulduggery.

The same thing happened after the last war, and on a smaller scale, after all wars. But what is probably making people squirm all over Washington is the revelation of the fact that telephone wires were pretty generally tapped, and heaven knows what may be in the FBI files. It is a strange thing about the telephone. People have just come to take for granted that because you can't see anybody on the line, nobody is there.

I wouldn't be surprised to learn that telephone conversations with most of the government departments are being recorded right now. I have reason to believe that when the question of installing these recorders in the White House was brought up, it was flatly turned down. White House employees have a long and excellent record for fidelity. Of course they are carefully screened, and when the campaign to get everybody fingerprinted (an excellent idea if you have nothing to conceal about your past and no plans for an over-adventurous future) was begun, the White House employees voluntarily came forward and offered their thumbs, fingers and hands for the ink-pad.

'When the People Vote, They Win'

The June "Economic Outlook," published by the Congress of Industrial Organizations, contains an article entitled "When the People Vote—They Win." That might be interpreted in more ways than one. The article points out that an "off year" is so designated politically not only because the presidency is not at stake, but because the politicians know that general apathy on the part of the voter has marked those elections in the past: 1938 (off) thirty million voters went to the polls; (1940 (on) fifty million votes; 1942 (off) twenty-eight million; 1944 (on) forty-eight million.

The CIO takes the attitude that what the people as a whole want is what they (the CIO) want, and that the people get what they want when they vote for it. They say: "Mass registration and mass voting is the best guarantee of liberal progressive government."

They might also add that if you want conservative rather than liberal progressive government, you have to vote for it, too. In any case you can't get what you want unless you go after it. The "Outlook" prints a table showing how the vote shifted in certain districts in off-years. The table showed that when the vote fell off, it was the Democratic vote. Districts which swung from Democratic to Republican candidates in most cases shifted with a decrease in the total vote . . . "the Republican vote remaining relatively stable, while the Democratic vote dropped sharply."

Does this prove that Democrats are sleepier than Republicans, or that the Republican is a creature of habit?

In 1940, 50 million votes; 1942, 28 million; 1944, 48 million.

156,000 Telephones Installed in Michigan in 6 Months...

But 100,000 families are still waiting

Severe shortages of lead, copper and other materials which go into telephone equipment have upset our time-table for clearing up waiting lists.

Even so, during the first half of this year, Michigan Bell

- Installed new telephones at the fastest rate in its history — an average of 26,000 per month.
- But also received new orders at the fastest rate in history—an average of 27,000 applications per month.
- Added 340,000 miles of wire and installed enough additional central office switching equipment to serve 50,000 new customers.
- Cleared waiting lists in 27 Michigan Bell exchanges.

As the second half of 1946 gets under way, there are still 100,000 families waiting for telephones. Of these, 49,000 have placed their orders since the first of the year.

We still have to expand our facilities in 200 exchanges to give service to everyone who has ordered a telephone.

We now hope that most of the orders for service received before January 1, 1946, can be filled by the end of the year. In some areas, of course, we expect to complete many orders received this year, but it may be late 1947 before we can return to a "ready-to-serve" basis everywhere.

Meanwhile, we are loading our present equipment far beyond its normal capacity, to shorten the wait for as many folks as possible. This may affect the quality of service for the time being. But normal service will return as we install the needed lines and equipment.

Waiting applicants can be certain that we are just as anxious as they are to see their orders filled at the earliest possible date.

★ Long Distance lines and switchboards serving Michigan resort areas are extra busy this summer. On calls to and from those areas, you'll get better service by avoiding the rush hours—10 A.M. to noon and 7 to 9 P.M. Keeping calls brief will help too.

WNU RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: "I'm fond of you, Larry," Meg said quietly. "That's not enough," he replied. "Is there someone else?" No one else, Megan assured him, but he knew she did not love him enough. They decided to call off their engagement and wait another year. Jim MacTavish did not like that arrangement. Mrs. Stuart was first to tell Megan that her father was "running after" Alicia, and that it was "the talk of the town." Megan could not believe it—didn't want to believe it. "Folks is talkin' about Mist' Jim and Miz Stevenson," Old Annie confirmed. Annie left a shirt of her father's and Meg picked it up. There was lipstick on it. She mentioned it to Jim that night.

CHAPTER IX

The next morning when she was assembling the laundry, Annie came to Megan carrying a shirt of Jim's and held it out, saying in that colorless voice, "Do I wash dis one, Miss Meggie?"

Megan looked at the shirt, puzzled. And then she saw the unmistakable signs of lipstick on the collar! That of course, had been the reason Annie had brought the shirt to her—so that she might see the lipstick mark!

Megan drew a breath and said quietly, "Of course, Annie—what a silly question!"

Megan sat quietly, her hands clenched in her lap. But after all there was surely no reason why her father should not see Alicia Stevenson, if he liked—even to the extent of getting her lipstick on his shirt collar! Alicia was a widow, Jim a widower.

But that night when Annie and Amos had departed for their own two-room cabin at the back of the barn, and Megan and her father were alone in the house, Megan said quietly, "I understand, Dad, that you've been seeing a lot of Mrs. Stevenson?"

Jim looked up at her from his newspaper, and his eyes darkened with anger. "Have you any objections?" he demanded curtly.

"None at all," she answered him evenly. "It's just that I was a little surprised, that's all—to hear a thing like that from the neighbors, instead of from you—"

"A thing like what?" Jim's anger had deepened. "You sound as though I'd been conducting an—er—affair with a very charming and pleasant woman."

"I know nothing about it, except that—it seems people are talking—"

"Pleasant Grove people? Do you mink I give a darn what the—scum in this place talk about?"

"They are my friends," she pointed out.

"That's your own fault," he reminded her. "You don't have to live in this—this hick hole! You had a chance to get out of it—"

"We're getting away from the subject, don't you think?"

"If you're prying, trying to find out about my intentions towards Mrs. Stevenson," Jim said distinctly, a little malicious light in his eyes, "I have no objection to telling you the truth. I hope to marry Mrs. Stevenson—as soon as I can persuade her! She's selling her place, and I think we can make her happy here, don't you?"

Jim's eyebrows went up in pretended surprise, though his eyes laughed at her.

"And where else would a man take his wife, if not to his own home?" he asked. "You aren't forgetting that it is my own home—quite as much as it is yours?"

Megan sat very still, stunned with the unexpectedness of the blow.

"Of course," Jim went on after a moment, "when Matthews was so sure he could get seven thousand for this place, Alicia and I planned to keep her place and live there, because her place won't bring over two or three thousand. But when you decided not to sell—well, Alicia gave the listing of hers to Matthews, and we feel sure that we can all be quite cozy here together."

Megan drew a hard breath. "You know that wouldn't work out, Dad," she said.

"I can't see why not! There is surely ample room—four big bedrooms upstairs, five rooms downstairs—why, there's room enough here for half a dozen people—"

"If there were forty rooms, there wouldn't be enough room under one roof for Alicia Stevenson and me both!" Megan told him rashly.

"I think you're taking a very unreasonable attitude, my dear," said her father gently, malice twinkling in his eyes. "After all, having Alicia here will make things much easier for you. She will take over the mangement of the house, while you can give all your time to your beloved farming! I think it will be a very good arrangement, all around."

"It's an impossible arrangement and you know it," Megan told him hotly.

He shrugged ever so slightly and said gently, "Oh, well, if you are going to take that attitude—" He pretended to lose interest, but Megan knew that he was alert, that he was waiting tensely for her answer.

"I know why you are doing this, Father," she said at last, one of the few times in her life calling him "Father" instead of the more endearing "Dad." "You think you will force me to consent to selling the place here—"

"But, my dear girl, I thought we'd settled all that," he pointed out gently. "That's the reason Alicia decided that she might as well let Matthews see what he could do with the sale of her place. When you come to think of it, it would be rather silly to keep both—"

"And you wouldn't consider sharing her place?" Megan could not stop the words in time, and knew that a frantic hope threaded them.

"My dear!" her father protested, hurt. "What do you take me for? A man without pride, or the natural desire to take care of his wife? Most certainly I wouldn't consider moving into Alicia's place. This one is much larger and more comfortable and there's plenty of room. No, I think the whole arrangement is ideal. You are always so overworked with the outdoor labor in spring and summer, that I think it will be very nice to have the worry and responsibility of the housekeeping taken off your shoulders."

"It won't work, Father," she told him flatly.

There was something in the stealth, the furtiveness of his tread on the stairs—

"No?" His tone and smile were tantalizing.

"No! I'm not selling! And that's that!" she told him again, her jaw hard and set, her voice unshaken.

She got up suddenly and caught her sweater. The night was mild for winter, yet there was a dampness and a chill in it that made the sweater, and the scarf about her head very welcome, as she stepped from the back door into the yard.

The meadow was washed with thin cold moonlight, but under the trees the darkness was so intense that she had to feel her way from moonlit patch to moonlit patch—until she reached the flat stone beneath the tallest pine; and as she reached it, her heart turned over in her breast, and terror clutched at her, for a shadow moved in the darkness, and she knew that she was not alone. The next moment the shadow had moved swiftly into a patch of moonlight, and she saw it white on Tom Fallon's face.

"I frightened you—I'm sorry—"

Megan managed an unsteady laugh. "And I imagine I frightened you, too," she answered him.

"Well, as a matter of fact, you did," he admitted. Then as the moonlight touched her white face he added hurriedly, concerned: "Why, what's happened? You're ill—"

"Oh, no—just—well, upset—and ever since I was a child I have brought my troubles, big and little, to this spot and tried to find a way out of them! It's a habit that's hard to break," she added with an attempted gaiety that had an almost macabre quality.

"Could—a friend help?"

She shook her head.

"I—I'm afraid nobody can, really—that is, the only two people who can have no intention of doing it. I sound as confused and mixed up as I feel—so if you could just overlook it—"

And to Megan's own horror, and Tom's shocked surprise, she burst into tears!

After a stunned moment, Tom put his arm about her and held her close as though she were a frightened, bewildered child, and his soothing words were the words one would have used to a grieving child.

"My father is going to marry Alicia Stevenson," she told him, and so strong was the bond of friendship between them that it did not occur to her to be surprised that she should confide in him.

She heard him swear under his breath, but after a moment, he tried to offer comfort. "Well, of course I suppose she's a very attractive woman—and your father is lonely—"

"And she is selling her place and coming to live with us," she went on.

"Either that, or I have to agree to sell the farm, and she and father will live in her house."

"And you don't want to sell the farm, or go away from it." Tom understood that without any words from her. "I've gathered since I've known you how much the place means to you—"

She found it very soothing to sit here with him. It was surprising to discover that they knew each other well enough for silence to be pleasant and companionable so that speech was unnecessary.

Gradually the silence and peace of the moon-silvered pines seemed to drift into her heart; her spirits lifted a little. Someway, somehow, she would find a solution to the problems that now loomed so terribly strong and black and evil. Perhaps it was only that she was emotionally exhausted and had reached a place where she was conscious only of a lack of emotion that had replaced her grief.

They talked quietly, after that interval of peace and stillness. She asked about Martha and he told her that Martha had completely recovered. She asked hesitantly about Mrs. Fallon, and Tom told her, his mouth taut and tired, that there was no change there.

"She's —completely helpless, of course, and there is no change mentally," he added wearily.

"You mean—she can't leave her bed? Can't get around by herself?" asked Megan, remembering, with a feeling of chill, the morning when she had sat here and had watched that grotesquely posturing figure on the back lawn.

"She hasn't been out of bed in months and months," he told her heavily. "The doctors say that there is a thin chance of her recovery. That's why we can't bear to—send her away. If I had the money to pay for a private sanitarium—" He shrugged and his hands clenched into hard, tight fists. "But I can't turn her over to a state institution. Not while there is the smallest, faintest, tiniest hope that she can be made well again."

Megan asked uneasily, "But shouldn't she be having treatments?"

"She's had treatments for the past four years," Tom answered wearily. "Everything possible has been done, and a few months ago the doctors told me that the only hope was to get her away somewhere quiet, among new scenes, and just try to build up her physical condition. That might help to restore the lost mental health, but they couldn't guarantee it. She—went to pieces when our son was born—dead."

Megan said, her voice shaken and ragged with pity, "I'm so terribly sorry—"

Unconsciously, she had put out her hand to touch him, and as his hand closed over it and held it hard for a moment, she heard him mutter something—she couldn't be sure what.

They were still for a little, and Megan wondered uneasily about his saying that his wife had not been out of bed in months. She knew that she had seen her, a slim white form, the sunlight gleaming gold on her head, dancing a weird, grotesque dance—a dance interrupted by Martha, who had taken the white figure into the house.

Did Tom know, she wondered? Did he try to conceal the fact that his wife was not a helplessly bedridden invalid, in the hope of convincing people that, while she was a "mental case," she was completely harmless? Of course he and Martha were doing everything humanly possible to keep anybody in Pleasant Grove from knowing that his wife was a "mental case"—

She stood up suddenly and said, "I have to go—I shouldn't have come, at all, but habit is strong."

"I'm glad you did," Tom told her quietly. "And I hope you didn't mind finding me here."

"Of course not. There's room on the Ridge for both of us—and who knows? Maybe we'll both find solutions to our problems here," she answered as she turned to go. "No, you mustn't come with me—"

"Only to the fence," Tom told her. "From there on, you have the moonlight clear to your back door and I can watch until you go into the house and know that you're safe."

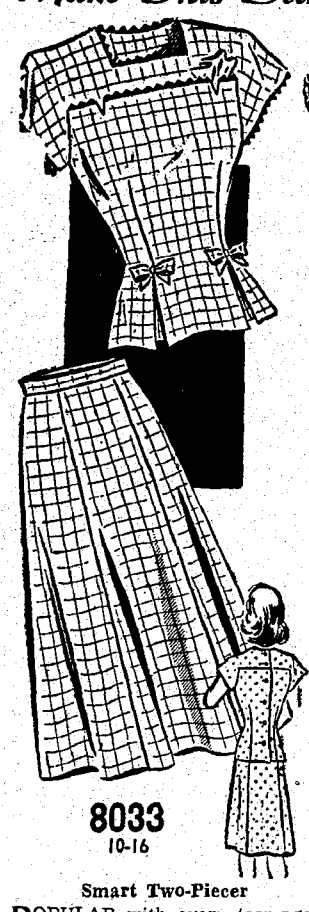

There was a look in his face that made the protest stop on her lips. She nodded and they walked together to the fence. When she crossed the meadow and stood at the little foot-log that bridged the small, busy creek, she turned to look back and saw him still standing there. She threw up her arms in a little gesture that said good night and caught the flicker of his return gesture. And then with her heart considerably lighter than it had been when she left the house, she went back in and up the stairs to her own room.

The house was dark and silent. There was no thread of light beneath her father's door, and she was surprised, when she reached her own room, to discover that she'd been gone two hours.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Tins which are not badly stained can be polished well with brown paper that has been moistened in vinegar.

Colored chenille spreads should never be washed with other cottons even if they are color-fast. It is important, too, that the machine or tub be well washed first, for lint from other cotton clings to the chenille tufts and gives them a dull look you won't like.

Hang up towels to dry immediately after using them to prevent mildew. Never put a damp towel in the laundry bag or leave it in a heap on the bathroom floor.

When washing hollow handled knives do not allow them to remain too long in water as this might loosen them.

To avoid cloudy iced tea never pour hot tea over ice or place it in the refrigerator. Let the tea cool in room temperature first.

The stems of roses and other cut flowers should be cut regularly and slantwise with a sharp knife under warm, running water. Keep the bottom stem under water while the cut is being made.

To prevent ugly marks on your floors apply wax to the casters on your furniture.

To clean a soured sponge, rub fresh lemon into it thoroughly. Rinse several times in lukewarm water.

Use old shower curtains to make aprons, bibs, place mats, or sash curtains for the bathroom.

Sew loose buttons on at once. Takes only a moment and prevents your losing the button.

See the power of national emblems. Some stars, lilies, leopards, a crescent, a lion, an eagle, or other figure which came into credit God knows how, an old rag of bunting, blowing in the wind on a fort at the ends of the earth, shall make the blood tingle under the rudest or the most conventional exterior.—Emerson.

Potatoes are plentiful in supply and will spoil if you don't use them. Use them in place of scarce wheat products as the starchy food for dinner, as stuffing or even in baking.

Wheatless Meals

If you want to have fun, and at the same time, test your ingenuity, do what some of the public eating places are doing during the wheat shortage: On one day of the week, serve completely wheat-free meals.

You may even learn to like it so well, that you can stretch this to two days of the week and thereby help feed the famine-stricken countries. Why not try it?

What are some of the foods to use in place of bread and flour? Here is a partial list to help you: potatoes, corn and cornmeal, corn cereals, hominy, oatmeal, rice and other wheat-free cereals.

You might start off breakfast with cornmeal muffins or potato pancakes in place of the customary rolls, coffee-cake or toast. Use potatoes plentifully for both luncheon and dinner, and if you want bread, make some oatmeal gems, 100 per cent rye bread, or corn sticks. The family will appreciate them as a welcome change.

Non-wheat cereals like cornmeal and oatmeal can be used for stuffing and crumbing in place of bread or flour. Only in a very few cases will you be able to tell the difference, and even if you can, you won't find that difference unpleasant.

Now that the vegetable and fruit season is here in earnest, fill the family on salads and fruity desserts. Everyone yearns for in-season produce and large quantities of fruits and vegetables will spell both health and pleasant eating to the family.

Look over these recipes which I've dished up for you today. Perhaps they will start you thinking about how you can help in serving some wheat-free meals every week and still give the family complete satisfaction at the dining table.

Potato Cups With Tuna Fish.
(Serves 4)

1¼ pounds potatoes
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons vinegar
¾ teaspoon grated onion
½ cup diced celery
⅛ cup diced chopped olives
½ cup grated American cheese
Lettuce

Wash and peel potatoes and cut into pieces. Cook until done in salted water. (Water should be evaporated by the end of the cooking time.) Press through a ricer, add milk, ½ of the mayonnaise, 4 teaspoons of the vinegar and ¼ teaspoon of the grated onion. Beat until well blended, then spoon and shape into nests or cups and chill.

Add remaining ingredients to one 7-ounce can of flaked tuna fish, chill and then serve into potato cups. Sprinkle top with cheese and garnish with crisp greens.

LYNN SAYS:

Save flour when you bake: You can stretch your flour supply by adding fruits, meats and vegetables to your hot breads and dinner dishes.

For example, when you make pancakes or waffles, any of the following may be used to give you more from your recipe, without additional flour: chopped apples, mashed bananas, blueberries, diced ham and cheese, sausage meat partially cooked and drained, canned or cooked corn, and nuts.

When making home-baked breads, use dried fruits and oatmeal whenever possible, in muffins, bread and biscuits. Prunes, raisins and figs are fine for flavor and texture.

In place of bread, occasionally use leftover cereals for the starchy food for breakfast. Add one cup of ground leftover meat to cereal and chill, then slice and fry. Or, add chopped apples to cereal, fry as for french toast and serve with syrup or honey. Sweeten and flavor cereal and bake with eggs and milk and serve as a dessert.

*Recipes given.

Here is a vegetable dish that is substantial enough to fill in for both bread and meat on some day:

Corn Cutlets.
(Serves 6)

¾ cup thick white sauce
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 hard-cooked eggs finely diced
1 cup cream-style corn

Combine ingredients in order given. Divide into six equal parts and shape into cutlets or patties. Roll in crushed cereal crumbs and brown in a small amount of drippings or fat, turning once. Serve with melted cheese, if desired.

Corn Sticks.
(Makes 14 corn sticks)

1 cup corn meal or water-ground corn meal
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
⅜ teaspoon soda
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2 tablespoons melted fat
1 egg, slightly beaten

Sift corn meal, salt, sugar, baking powder and soda together. Add buttermilk and fat to beaten egg. Add to the corn meal mixture all at once, stirring quickly and vigorously until just mixed. Place in hot, greased cornstick pans. Bake in a hot (425-degree) oven for 20 minutes or until done.

If you're looking for a hearty supper with a stick-to-the-ribs main dish and a light, summery dessert, you'll want to clip the following recipes to have on hand.

Savory Baked Beans and Hamburger.
(Serves 4)

2 tablespoons fat or drippings
⅓ cup sliced onions
⅔ cup diced celery
½ pound chuck, ground
2⅔ cups baked beans or cooked kidney beans
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon powdered sage
⅓ cup water or canned tomato juice

Heat fat in skillet, then add onions, celery and ground meat. Cook uncovered for 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly.

You don't need bread when you make meat loaf. In its place you can substitute oatmeal, chopped nuts, ground leftover vegetables or leftover mashed potatoes.

Peach Melba.
(Serves 8)

4 cups fresh raspberries
½ cup currant jelly
½ cup granulated sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water
8 canned peach halves
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Mash raspberries, add currant jelly and sugar and bring to a boil. Add cornstarch mixed to a smooth paste with cold water and cook, while stirring, until thick and clear. Strain and cool. Place one peach half, cut side up, in each sherbet glass, fill with ice cream and serve with sauce poured over the ice cream.

This sauce Melba may also be served over orange ice cream or lemon sherbet for delicious effect.

Mocha Peach Shake
(Serves 4)

4 canned cling peach halves
2 teaspoons soluble powdered coffee
¼ cup hot water
1 cup vanilla ice cream
1 cup light cream

Mash peaches and press through sieve. Dissolve coffee with hot water. Combine peaches, dissolved coffee, ice cream and cream, and beat with a rotary beater until smooth.

JESUS AND REVERENCE FOR SPIRITUAL VALUES

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:7; Leviticus 19:12; Matthew 5:33-37; Mark 7:5-8; 6:34-36.
MEMORY SELECTION—But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6:33.

Reverence is not an incidental thing which we may or may not choose to have in our lives. It is vital. Reverence toward God and the things of God will result in respect for all values in life. It will balance our thinking, speaking, and our acting toward our fellow men as well as toward our God. Our lesson calls for

I. Reverence in Worship (Exod. 20:7; Lev. 19:12).

The Lord rightfully expects from us a proper attitude toward him. If we worship him as we should, we shall find that other matters fall into their proper relationships.

Essential in true worship is reverence for the name of the Lord, for that name stands for all the qualities and characteristics of God. This means that there must be no taking of the name of the Lord "in vain." Our use of the word "vain" carries the meaning of "useless, without purpose or meaning." This is part of what is in mind in this commandment, for the name of Jehovah is sacred and is to be reverenced as standing for the eternal God.

It is never to be used carelessly, or for a frivolous purpose. All too often we tell jokes or stories which have no real purpose or meaning except to elicit a laugh, and in them we use the name of God. We all need to exercise care at that point.

The Hebrew word translated "vain" has the additional meaning of "evil" and "falsehood." Men are so bold that they may even use the name of God to support themselves in a lie. God hears and will in no wise hold them guiltless.

II. Reverence in Words (Matt. 5: 33-37).

The Sermon on the Mount (so-called), from which this portion of Scripture is taken, is difficult to interpret to the satisfaction of all. Some disregard its evident application to the kingdom and, attempting to apply it in the midst of an ungodly generation, fall into such inconsistency that they abandon the effort and regard the teaching of the passage as impossible idealism.

Others, who rightly interpret the passage as presenting the laws and principles of life in the kingdom of God, when it shall be fully set up on earth with Jesus as King, fail to make any application of those principles to life. This is also an unfortunate error.

We who follow the Lord Jesus are not to swear by either things sacred or things that might be called secular. Perhaps he has in mind that our lives should be so true that men will not need to have any kind of oath to be assured of our sincerity and honesty.

Swearing should be entirely beyond the pale with Christian men and women. It is all too common with both men and women. One fears that this is true not only in the world, but among professed believers in Christ. Let us stop it!

III. Reverence in Works (Mark 7:5-8).

Words which do not issue in works are worse than meaningless. They lead to acceptance of a formal religious system which is dangerous.

"It gives a sense of religious satisfaction which is very superficial, but of some apparent value. It carries with it no high ethical demands. It helps a man to feel religious without being either ethical or moral. It does not probe or arouse. It soothes and calms" (W. R. White).

Who will deny that much of the church life of our day has reached that same sad state of "much ado about nothing"—talk, talk, talk, and no honest disposition to deal with sin, or to seek holiness of life. The Lord hates it, and it is a vain exercise as far as spiritual results are concerned.

IV. Reverence in Will (Mark 8: 34-36).

Here true reverence shows itself in recognizing that God's will is "good and acceptable and perfect" (Rom. 12:1).

Following the Christ of Calvary calls for a willingness to say no to self (literally, to deny any connection with self-life) and to follow through with him on the path of shame and crucifixion. No self-will and no compromise are permissible to Christ's disciples.

Foolishly to attempt to hold one's life for self is to lose it. That painful loss has left brokenhearted, wrecked lives all along the path of man's history. But why should anyone do it?

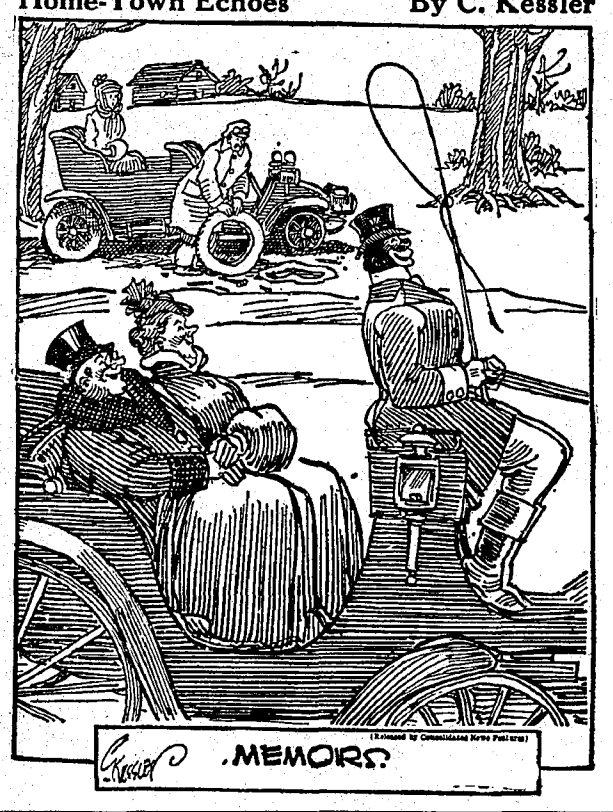

Equally foolish is the one who supposes that this world has anything to satisfy the human soul. Assuming the possibility of the impossible—that is, attaining the whole world as one's own possession—to do so at the cost of one's soul would be an indescribably poor bargain.

Excessive Fat Seriously Handicaps Divers, Aviators

Excessive fat is a handicap to aviators, divers and others subjected to changing air pressure because fat, unlike hard muscle, absorbs and holds nitrogen, thus increasing their susceptibility to "bends," says Collier's. As fat is more buoyant than hard muscle, a man's excessive fat may be determined scientifically by the relationship between his normal weight and his weight under water.

For example, while a 200-pound hard-muscled man may weigh 15 pounds under water, a 200-pound fat man may weigh only six pounds, the difference between the two weights of each man being the basis of an index to the density of his body.

Farm Topics

FOR HEALTHY COWS:

One long-lived cow will make more net dollars for the dairyman than three short-lived cows. A. C. Baltzer, extension dairy specialist at Michigan State college, figures it this way.

A dairy heifer does nothing but cost money from the time of her birth until she freshens at about two years of age. All that time, she doesn't give a thing, while the dairyman pays, but if she does a fair job in her first year of milk production, she'll pay back to the owner the cost of raising her from birth to freshening time. If she's productive and healthy during her second year of milk production, she'll repay the owner for her living expenses during her first and second years of production.

If a cow lives, stays healthy and reproduces regularly for her third, fourth, and fifth years of milk production—she'll bring her owner more net dollars than three cows that were productive only through their third years.

Now, let's draw conclusions. This seems to illustrate the practical reasons for good care and proper feeding. Good care and proper feeding will keep cows healthy, keep them living longer, and put more money in your pocket.

Hay—properly sun-cured and carrying large amounts of vitamin A and D will go along way to maintain good livestock, and especially dairy herd health. One fact about hay—it it's exposed to sunshine beyond the fourth day—it will lose vitamin A in a hurry, but it'll possess larger amount of vitamin D.

On the matter of care, remember that resisting and preventing disease is always more effective and more important than later attempts to eradicate and cure disease.

FREEZING COOKED FOODS:

Until now much has been said about freezing foods in the raw—raw vegetables, raw fruit, raw meats and so on. But now Dr. Pauline Paul, research specialist in foods and nutrition at MSC, steps forth with the whys and wherefores of freezing cooked foods.

In cooked foods, as well as uncooked, the quality of the raw material is all important. Especially if you're freezing a mixture, bear in mind that one low quality ingredient can spoil all the others.

Prepare the food as you always would for cooking, but watch the actual cooking process closer than usual. Particularly with vegetables, it's better to undercook than overcook—since freezing sometimes has the same effect on texture as cooking does. On the other hand, meat should be thoroughly cooked—so if you're preparing a mixture of vegetables and meat, undercook the vegetables, cook the meat well and then combine them for freezing.

Once the material is cooked, let it cool thoroughly before packaging. This will save spoilage of the food and of the package. The packaging material should be the same as for uncooked frozen foods — moisture-vapor proof and well sealed— but pack the food in solidly so that it can retain the most flavor.

Once packaged freeze the food promptly and rapidly. Little is known about the storage life of cooked frozen foods, but it is known that all frozen foods will hold their quality better if stored at zero degrees Fahrenheit or below.

When it's time to use the frozen cooked food, it's usually best to heat it directly from the frozen state rather than thawing it first. Even your baked products will respond better if you thaw them in the oven.

PENINSULA...

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Mr. David Gaunt was Sunday supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham.

Mr. James Palmeter of Three Bells Dist. is able to be around again after having a blood clot.

Mrs. Ellis of Boyne City spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Will MacGregor at Whiting Park.

Mrs. Winnifred Quirk of Dewey Dells is working nights at the Ellsworth Canning Factory.

The Peninsula news failed to appear in the Boyne Citizen, July 14, although sent in as usual.

Cherry picking began Monday, July 21, nearly a week later than usual. There is a fair crop.

Mr. G. C. Ferris of Star Dist. went to Ellsworth, Wednesday evening, to conduct a Red Cross School.

Mr. Clayton Smith of Los Angeles, Calif., was supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Crane, Thursday evening.

Mr. Robert Hayden and son Herman of Boyne City were supper guests at Orchard Hill, Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lesher and family of Petoskey called on the A. Reich family at Lone Ash farm, Sunday afternoon.

A fine rain Saturday night caught a lot of hay out. Wheat harvest is nigh on and oats, which promises a good yield, is turning.

Mr. and Mrs. Mell Sheldon of Fenton are visiting Mrs. Sheldon's brother, Robert Myers and family in Mountain Dist. and other relatives.

There were 20 in attendance at the Star Sunday School, July 21, all children but Miss Dorothy McDonald who supervises the school and Mrs. Ray Loomis and son Clare.

Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Jewett of Muskegon came Sunday to the home of Mrs. Jewitt's sister, Mrs. Will Gaunt in Three Bells Dist. to help with the cherry harvest.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crowell of Dave Staley Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayden and family of Boyne City, spent Sunday evening with the F. K. Hayden family at Pleasant View farm.

The C. A. Crane Cottage is now occupied by a family from Ohio, the former occupants from Toledo, having vacated Sunday. The smaller cottage is occupied by a young couple from Detroit.

Junior Gaunt arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Gaunt in Three Bells Dist. the 8th of July after serving two years in the service of his country, eighteen mos. overseas, mostly in Italy.

Mr. and Mr. Gilson Pearsall and two daughters of Mason, Mich., came Saturday to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mullett and family who are occupying the F. H. Wangeman place to harvest their cherry crop.

Mr. David Gaunt, who has been with his daughter, Mrs. Mamie Myers in Mountain Dist. for several weeks helping with the strawberrying and gardening, is now at his own home wth the Will Gaunts in Three Bells Dist.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nicloy and son Curtis of Sunny Slopes farm had dinner with Mrs. Nicloy's sister, Mrs. Ray Boington and family in Boyne City Sunday, after church. After dinner both the Nicloy's and Boington's called on Mrs. Allen and son Frank at Horton Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Arnott of near East Jordan motored to Ann Arbor, Tuesday, to see Mrs. Arnott's brother Evert "Bob" Jarman, who has been desperately ill at the University Hospital, and found him much improved and planning to come to his farm, Gravel Hill, south side, as soon as he is able to make the trip, likely in about a month.

Mrs. Bristol and daughter Miss Gwendolyn Bristol of Mt. Pleasant, and her son Kenneth Bristol and wife and little son of Akron, Ohio, are occupying the Anderson Cottage on Lake Charlevoix. Sunday afternoon the whole bunch and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Healey of Far View farm took a motor trip to Charlevoix. Rev. and Mrs. Richard Hopp of Akron, Ohio, are also with the bunch in the Anderson Cottage.

The Presbyterian Sunday School from East Jordan had a wonderful picnic at Whiting Park Friday evening. 16 from the Star Sunday School joined them. There were 110 at the richly spread table which fairly groaned with good things to eat. The games and contests were wonderful and the prizes were worth while. It was an occasion long to be remembered. The little Hayden children of Pleasant View farm had a date with the dentist and were unable to attend although they are regular attendants at the Star Sunday School.

Mother nodded to the minister as he passed by. "Who's that Mother?"

"That's the man who married me, dear," she said.

If that's the man who married you, what's pa doing at our house?"

If you owe a debt,pay it; if you owe a grudge,forget it.

Amphibian Tanks Found To Speed Up Surveys

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—"Water buffaloes" equipped with "walkie-talkies" have been invading a new kind of beachhead along the Colorado river, according to the bureau of reclamation which has been using them to speed up river control surveys in the tule swamps.

Turned over the bureau by the U. S. naval landing force depot at Albany, Calif., the war-developed LVT-IIIs have shoved their blunt noses into many places along the river that formerly were inaccessible or were reached only by days of rough going through paths cut in heavy vegetation.

In tests held in the swamps between Needles and Topock, the amphibious tanks plowed their way through the tules and willows, their cleated caterpillar tracks and armored bellies crushing obstacles in their path.
